

Not only clean and hygienic, foam is also a great insulator and as a result is the perfect material for packaging food products. The Thai Foam Group uses no hazardous substances in any of its foam products, so customers are assured that their food is packed in the safest possible materials. The group provides packing foam to the fast food industry and makes heat-resistant containers for instant meals. Foam can also keep food cool, making it ideal for use in the frozen food industry and as ice-boxes; great for that picnic on the beach!